Customer Reviews

"Highway" an intoxicating post-apocalyptic tale of survival begins with a flash of light and a car crash that kills Lexie and Travis Broadmoor's father and sets them on a journey to find a safe haven with their uncle. With only a map, a bug-out bag and no survival skills the two set out across a landscape marred by burning homes, looters, gangs, thieves and rapists towards a destiny that will have them facing a deadly foe and a plan to unleash Armageddon. Set in an atmosphere of fear and uncertainty in the U.S. after nuclear explosions, the loss of power and a societal and economic breakdown, Lexie and Travis weighed down by the gravity of their situation, fatigue and grief face a three-day trek along the highway facing violence and death that's erupted along the way. Skilfully M.L. Banner and John Q. Prepper weave strands of a plot that follows not only Lexie and Travis's journey, but Frank Cartwright's fight in Stowell Texas to protect his home against Islamic jihadists and his mission to alert the soldiers of Ft. Rucker to a terrorist invasion. With twists and turns as secrets and schemes begin to unravel, the authors masterfully draw the threads of this gripping and intriguing plot together to climax in an explosive confrontation and cliff-hanger that begs for a sequel. Fast-paced and action-packed intensity and suspense builds when Lexie is kidnapped by a brutal gang, her escape to find Travis leading to death and danger at the hands of those she's suppose to trust. Similarly John Cartwright struggles to unveil the invaders plan to the army facing a cruel death with those held hostage at Ft. Rucker. Realistic and heart-pounding this is a story that holds you breathless until the end.
